Anglican Laymen Hear Eminent Ecclesiastic

Seventy laymen delegates from the parishes of Chilliwack, Abbotsford, Mission, Sardis, Langley Prairie, Rosedale and Surrey were entertained at St. Matthew's church on Thursday when a conference of the Deanery of Yale was held.

Being but the third conference of Anglican Laymen, the meeting was auspicious by the presence of Rev. Williams, Bishop of Huron, who as chairman of the Missionary Society of the Church of Canada, addressed the delegates upon the work the Society is performing in its various fields. Eloquently, and with a pleasant Welsh accent, His Lordship intelligently emphasized the value of missions and the gospel in the betterment of humanity and world-wide conditions. The word of God had elevated mankind to its civilized status, and only through preaching Holy Truth was it possible to maintain peace and intelligent civil government among the nations of the world. Paganism was the real menace of the world today as in the past, and all Christian countries should do their share in the support of foreign missions.

The Bishop then quoted figures showing the cost of such missions in the home fields as well as in China, India, Japan and Palestine. The sum raised by the society for this work, with the amount furnished by the women's auxiliary, totalled $435,000 annually.

Archdeacon Heathcote, in introducing the speaker to the laymen present, stated that the Bishop was "the man behind the gun" in the Anglican church, holding numerous important chairmanships, including that of the committee which completed the Canadian hymn book. His Lordship's visit was greatly appreciated by the local deanery.

Compliments were tendered the ladies of the church by Mr. J. A. Catherwood, M. L. A. for the excellent repast provided, who also expressed himself as certain the worthy work of the parish vicar, Rev. A. H. Priest in erecting such an excellent hall, was only made possible by the assistance he secured from the ladies.

Before the conference dissolved, Rev. Mr. Priest called attention of the delegates to Italian carvings presented to the church, which were later admiringly inspected.

During the meeting the National Anthem, the "Maple Leaf Forever" and "O Canada" were enthusiastically sung.

Abbotsford

An enjoyable evening was spent by members of the Men's Club on Monday night at games and other social diversions.

For next week's meeting games will be played until nine o'clock, when readings will be rendered by Messrs. H. Pratt, O. Benedict, Brown, Horne and H. Thorn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Downie visited Vancouver Tuesday.

After fifteen years of good service the roof of R. J. Shortreed's house is being re-shingled. A. R. Gosling is doing the work.

Mr. C. A. Haddrell left town Tuesday. He will be away for a short time.

Mrs. Atkins is visiting friends in Vancouver for a few days.

Mrs. Snashall is taking over the store lately operated by Mrs. Miller at the A. L. M. and D. mill.

The Rev. J. Knox Wright of Vancouver will give an illustrated lecture on a "Trip through Japan the Island Empire of the East" on Monday evening the October 15th. in the Presbyterian church at 8 p.m. He will have an exhibition of 100 magnificent coloured slides.

Dr. Wright is the District Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, and the offering will be in behalf of the funds of the Bible Society.

Mission Going Ahead Under Incorporation

Abbotsford residents interested enough to find out for themselves how village incorporation is working out at Mission will find a little personal enquiry well worth the trouble. Mission was incorporated nine months ago, and the answer to our question "is it worth while?" put to several citizens of that town, was in nearly every case an emphatic "yes." A number of Abbotsford property owners cautiously decided to wait when the incorporation proposed was suggested last spring, and see if it proved successful in Mission. Now the matter may be more intelligently considered and we suggest they investigate for themselves.

Since getting its charter, Mission has paved three blocks of street, the cost being shared by the government, laid half a mile of cinder and crushed rock sidewalk, erected retaining walls and made numerous other reasonable but progressive improvements. The school district organization has not been interfered with and the government still polices the town.

Improvements are still being made to the satisfaction of the majority, the town is not going into debt, and under the Act cannot go into debt. Taxes have not been appreciably affected and the town is spending its own money where it wants it spent, and is further getting something done for its money. Mission City is now an organized unit. Watch Mission grow!

Read what one Mission hardware merchant has to say about it in reply to our query. Mr. Alanson was at one time located in Abbotsford.

The Editor, Abbotsford Hero;

Dear Sir:

Re Village Incorporation under the present Act.

I think it is ideal for small towns, at least as far as Mission City is concerned. I consider that up to the present time we have received more improvements in the nine months of the present year than the whole four years prior to our Incorporation.

Besides, Village Incorporation gives you some status which you have not got while you are unorganized districts. Your taxes are all spent in your own town and the people have some say as to who are to spend them.

Under the Act your Commissioners can not run Incorporation into debt.

I would say it would be a good thing for Abbotsford and if I was living there would support Village Incorporation.

Now for Some Action!

That our plea was timely for another consideration of the incorporation project last week is evident by the interest since manifested by our citizens. The idea is taking hold, that if incorporation is worth while, the people want it. Many have expressed their views on the matter to us within the past few days, the consensus of opinion being that a real "business only" meeting is the next move, where the matter can be properly threshed out; and the sooner the better. It now remains for a few to get together as a committee and arrange for the discussion and select an intelligent chairman. We suggest further the gathering of all available data, for and against and have it presented to the meeting in logical debate order. This presentation to be aided by a resident or two from towns where the Act is being enjoyed.

Two years ago, so we are told the local Board of Trade promoted the incorporation project, but was forced to abandon it as the "Village Municipalities Act" was not completed. The situation is different today. The news firmly believes incorporation to be a good thing for Abbotsford. Let's take off our coats and find out.

Sumas Prairie

C. A. Watson Sumas prairie reports the sale of an eight-day old Guernsey calf for $75. Its mother won special prizes in Abbotsford fair.

Among buildings under construction on the Sumas prairie are a large barn for Dan Smith, two graineries for F. and W. Fooks, and a new grainery for J. Cook.

Mrs. C. A. Watson is visiting for a few days with Mrs. McLean at Sardis.

Mrs. Stafford of Ladner spent Sunday with her mother Mrs. Everett, Sumas prairie.

Harry Day is constructing an extension to his silo to hold a bumper crop of corn he has just cut.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean of Sardis visited the Sunnybank Farm over Sunday.

Sam Austin has just finished his wheat seeding.

Chas. Everett is making great strides in clearing and breaking virgin soil on his place.

John McGarva of Maple Falls visited his mother over Sunday.

Mr. Rudge week-ended in Vancouver.

Jim Watson has returned after a month's absence at Sardis.

Mrs. McGarva is visiting in the terminal city.

An interesting ceremony is being arranged for next week between two local people.

The new dryers are now completed at the Kilgard plant of the Clayburn company, and two new sewer pipe machines are being installed.

We note Mr. Barrow stated in Victoria last week that some of the reclaimed land will be offered for sale early next year, the land market not being considered favorable at the present time to offer for sale as anticipated. There are barely 2000 acres of water in the lake just now, mostly low spots and they are receding rapidly.

At the other end of the Prairie threshing is also in progress. Crews are just finishing on the Beebe farm, have threshed for Cruickshanks and Al Evans and are now going to Sinclair's and Majors. On the Chilliwack end over 500 acres of reclaimed land was in crop this year, and the crops have been wonderful.

Detail business and passing of accounts only was done at the Sumas council meeting held on Saturday last.

The Langley football team beat Clayburn by 2-0 at the latter's grounds on Saturday last. The game for this week is with Mission at Clayburn.

Arrangements are being effected to bring the Vancouver South Hill team down for an exhibition game.

"ADAM AND EVA"

Marion Davies' latest Cosmopolitan production, "Adam and Eva," will be shown at the Abbotsford theatre on Saturday, October 13th.

Miss Davies, as Eva King, is the extravagant daughter of James King, owner of many rubber plantations.

She is taken in tow by an energetic young man who succeeds admirably in keeping her in check, that is, until the trick which he has played on her has been discovered. Then there is the mischief to pay. Eva leaves him flat, but remembering that he has done this all for her good, she returns and begs forgiveness.

This picture brings a new Marion Davies to the screen. Never before has she been quite so charming. T. Roy Barnes of "The Old Homestead" fame, plays the leading male role opposite Miss Davies. The love interest in this picture is appealing, and the laughs are many.

World Insurance Against War

Nearly five years have passed since the signing of the Armistice put an end to actual hostilities in the Great War, to be followed the following year by the Peace Treaty and the creation of the League of Nations with its covenant designed to bring about the peaceable settlement of future disputes between nations. Yet the Allied armies are still in occupation of German soil and within the year the French and Belgian forces have penetrated further into Germany in an effort to compel recognition and payment of reparations.

Feeling between France and Germany is today possibly even more bitter than it was on the day the bugles sounded "cease fire." France, still fearing future German aggression, is determined to further cripple her traditional enemy and thereby provide an adequate safeguard against any recurrence of the horrors and devastation through which she passed between August, 1914, and November, 1918. Germany continues sullen and refuses to pay, insisting upon financial inability to do so.

Russia remains a menace to the peace of the world, distrusted by all nations and distrustful of all. Turkey defeated in the war, emerges triumphant from the peace conferences because of jealousies and conflicting interests among the nations allied in the war. Suspicions are rife among all the Balkan states, each one more or less fearful of the other, each seemingly awaiting an opportunity to wrest from the other territory which they covet or claim rightfully belongs to them.

The United States, whose representatives played a foremost part in bringing the League of Nations into existence and in framing its covenant, refuses to have anything to do with it and stands aloof in so-called splendid isolation from the entanglements which they fear would result from participation in the task of endeavoring to bring order out of the chaos in Europe. Meanwhile, economic ruin starves country after country in the face, national currencies have lost their value, world trade is handicapped, resulting in millions of unemployed in Great Britain, the sanest of all the Big-Powers of the world.

And now because the Italian members of a commission engaged in fixing an Albanian boundary line are assassinated, it is alleged by Greeks, the Italian Government serves an ultimatum on Greece, even before it is established that Greeks were responsible for the outrage, which is reminiscent of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia which precipitated the Great War, and because Greece does not immediately comply with all the terms of the Italian demands, Italy proceeds to bombard a Greek island and take possession of it, and, although a member of the League of Nations, practically repudiates her signature to the covenant and declares she will withdraw from the League if it seeks to interfere in the dispute which has arisen with Greece.

Of what value is Italy, or any country, as a member of the League if it remains free to make war on another member? And yet the League of Nations offers the only hope to the world that, just as soon as it feels strong enough to do so, some nation will not again plunge the world into the horrors of another Great War, and one which in its magnitude and slaughter would far surpass the one through which mankind has so recently emerged and which all but destroyed civilization itself.

Canadians sometimes ask themselves why they should be taxed to maintain the League of Nations, and why prominent British and Canadian statesmen should busy themselves travelling over the world lecturing on behalf of the League and encouraging the formation of branches of the League of Nations Society. But surely if one only stops to think a moment it will be realized that the League, imperfect though it may be, offers the only insurance against war, and if there is any insurance worth while it is protection against war.

Italy's attitude only serves to emphasize the importance of organizing public opinion the world over in support of the League. Public opinion makes and unmakes Governments, even where autocracies seem all powerful, and if the masses of the people in all countries, who are the chief sufferers in war, stand solidly back of the League, Governments will fall in line, with the result that the peace-loving League will become all powerful, and nations will be quick to comply with its requests and abide by its impartial decisions.

Even with the League war is possible; without the League war would be not only probable, but almost a certainty in view of the present unsettled state of the world.

Has Many Honors

From 1911 to 1922 Saskatchewan farmers have won 229 prizes for their grain, grasses and vegetables at International shows held in Canada and the United States. Of these a total of 84 were either sweepstakes or first prizes. The exhibition of wheat has been a prominent feature at all the shows where it has been shown.

Loan Scheme For Cattle Feeding

A loan scheme for cattle feeding among the farmers that will enable the farmers to feed and hold cattle to meet market requirements, has been announced by the Manitoba Cattle Loan Company. It is hoped the result will show a considerable increase in livestock in the province, with better return for the farmer.

British Laws

Taft Pays a Tribute to the British Legal Principle

The close ties uniting American and Canadian legal systems, the bench and the bar, were emphasized at the final banquet of the American Bar Association at the St. Paul Auditorium, where Chief Justice Taft, the Earl of Birkenhead, J. Hamilton Lewis and others spoke informally. The chief just felicitated the association members on the planned visit to London next year.

"No worthy member of the American bar can visit London and the ancient inns and law courts and witness the administration of justice there, without feeling a deep gratitude to that country and nation from whom we derive our principles," said the chief justice.

"You will come back proud of the derivation of your law, and anxious to perpetuate and render stronger the bond we should feel for our old home of the law."

Loaded Cattle in Record Time

What is claimed to be a world's record for loading cattle aboard a steamer was established at Quebec when 282 head of cattle were loaded aboard the Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamer, Canadian Victor, in 25 minutes.

The cattle walked up the gangway at the rate of over ten a minute, not a hitch marred the proceedings.

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters' complexions and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Railroad Man Gives Out Surprising Facts

"If any in my family were sick with stomach trouble or run-down condition, I would rather have one bottle of Tanlac than all the other medicines put together," is the positive statement of F. A. Barrowcliff, 8 Locomotive St., Hamilton, Ont., well-known yardman for the Grand Trunk Railroad.

"My wife's health was restored by the Tanlac treatment in such short order it was astonishing, for she suffered so terribly with nervousness, headaches, sleeplessness and loss of appetite that I thought she would break down completely. She went meal after meal without eating, and was so fearfully weak the care of our five children and the housework was more than she could do.

"After her first few doses of Tanlac my wife was like an entirely different person, and hasn't had a sick spell since she quit taking the medicine six months ago. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing in our house, and we are glad to recommend it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

"Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere."

Heavy Demand For Binder Twine

Quantity Used in Saskatchewan Heaviest in History of the Province

With the sole exception of 1915 the sales of binder twine in Saskatchewan are the heaviest in the history of the province and far ahead of last year, according to dealers. One firm sold six million pounds. This firm estimated total consumption for the province this season at between 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 pounds. The price was down half a cent a pound from last year's figures, and the reduction over the past three years is seven cents a pound. The present average price is 13½ cents.

Implement dealers also reported a heavier demand for binders than was noted in 1922, one of the best years in the history of the trade.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

Mine Production in B.C.

According to the prediction of the Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines, the year 1923 will probably set a new high record in production for B.C. In 1922 the total output was $35,158,843, making an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year. The rate of production, which was reached during the closing quarter of last year, has been continued so far this year. The total for the current year should run well over $40,000,000, and may possibly near the $50,000,000 mark.

Interest Shown In Oil Fields

Radio will be installed this winter to increase efficiency of the Vancouver unit, Royal Canadian Air Force, in the flying season of 1924. Major W. A. This will be of great service to the Forest Patrol Branch of the Air Force in locating forest fires in unfrequented districts.

Bulgarian Women Shortened Dresses When Premier Died

The death of Stambulski, former premier of Bulgaria, seems to have had more than a political effect in his country. No sooner was it confirmed, says a Sofia news message, than the women in the cities began to order and make new dresses, and to buy new shoes with high heels.

This is all due to the fact that Stambulski had ordered that women's dresses should be worn long, and even described the exact length. He also ordered that all shoes should have flat heels, and the police were instructed to enforce these regulations.

Now the demand for dresses and high heeled shoes in Sofia is so great that the shops cannot meet it.

Agricultural Workers

Fully one-half of the workers of the world are now engaged in agriculture. Department of Agriculture experts say. In India 72 per cent. of the workers are in agricultural pursuits—71,000,000 males and 34,000,000 females.

Pain In the Muscles, Stiffness In Joints, Quickly Subdued By Nerviline

Those who have tested out numerous liniments will agree that where something is needed to dislodge a deep-seated, more or less chronic condition there is nothing to compare with Nerviline. It's because Nerviline penetrates so deeply, because it has about five times the strength of the ordinary oily preparation, it has come to be known as King over all Pain. For Rheumatic conditions, muscular and joint stiffness, Nerviline works wonders. A trial proves this. Get a 35-cent bottle from your dealer to-day.

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee Street, Winnipeg, Man.

Canada's Achievements In Industry And Finance Is Subject Of Comment

Canada is much better off, in case of a coal strike, than she was last year. Her crops are good. She has exported some 7,000 British harvesters in addition to her own for her nearly 400,000,000 bushels of wheat. Through railroads, steamship companies and various associations she is actively promoting colonization. Close neighbor as she is, and with so large a population of former Americans, probably few of us have realized her remarkable achievements in trade, industry and finance, says the New York Times. The Index, published by the New York Trust Company, reminds us that Canada, with less than 9,000,000 population, is first in the world in proportion of exports per capita of population and actually fourth in volume of exports.

Her world trade for the year ended June, 1923, was nearly $1,850,000,000. Our population is more than twelve times hers. Our world trade for the same twelve months amounted to $7,738,336,000, only about four times hers. The whole volume of trade between the two countries was about $980,000,000, say an eighth of the value of our whole-world trade. Canada sold its products valued at $394,000,000, bought of us goods valued at $585,000,000; and the increase in her exports was larger than that of ours to her. Her import and export trade with us was more valuable than all her trade with the British Empire, though that, too, made decided gains.

Canada is already "our second best customer," not much behind Great Britain; and she may easily become our best customer. Both our people and our capital have gone into the Dominion largely. In the years from 1900 to 1922 nearly 1,400,000 Americans crossed the northern border. The Yankee immigrants were more than one-third of the total immigration in that time; outnumbered the British by more than 30,000. American investments in Canada are estimated at $2,500,000,000, nearly as much as British investments; and two-thirds of this sum has gone there since 1914. Americans hold $701,000,000 of Canadian Government provincial and municipal bonds; the British hold $511,000,000. American industrial investments in Canada amount to nearly $850,000,000, about 31 per cent. of the whole, while British capital in the same enterprises is estimated at $285,000,000, slightly more than 10 per cent. of the total. Railways, mines, automobile manufactures, meat packing, metals, paint, pulp and paper, and oil refining are the main American investments.

With her immense, thinly populated area, Canada is still chiefly an agricultural country. Her farm property is valued at $6,830,000,000, her manufactures at about half that sum; but these are moving ahead rapidly. Water power is being developed on a large scale. The sum of $330,000,000 was spent on building in 1922, an increase of more than $90,000,000 over 1921. Canada is on the high road to a marvelous development, and by her prosperity the United States will be made more prosperous. Our interests and hers are in many respects inseparably entwined.

The Destroyed Japanese Cities

Tokio, Yokohama and Nayoga Were All flourishing Centres

Tokio, the capital of Japan and situated at the head of the landlocked Bay of Tokyo, had a population of 2,000,000 in 1905, when the last census was taken. Its suburbs add greatly to the total, although the principal railroad centre of the empire, Tokio, is not an important manufacturing centre. It has a water system, electric and gas lighting, good macadamized roads, public libraries, public works, transportation, education and sanitation being carried on according to the methods of civilized cities all over the world. The imperial university has six faculties and over 3,000 students. The city has suffered several times before from severe earthquakes.

Yokohama, the chief seaport and treaty port of the empire, is on the Bay of Tokyo, about 17 miles southwest of Tokio, of which it is the port. It had a population of about 500,000. It is a city of marked contrast, the foreign quarters and business district being well built, while the native section is poor. There were many handsome business structures in the city.

Nayoga is the chief city of Owari Province, Hondo, and has a population of approximately 600,000. It is the fifth of the chief cities of Japan. Nagoya is well known as one of the great seats of the pottery trade, to which the manufacture of porcelain is rapidly being added. It lies at the head of the shallow Isenumi Bay, about 30 miles from the Port of Yokkaichi with which it communicates by rail and light-draught steamers. Nagoya is a great centre of export for all of the surrounding district. Cotton mills have been established there and an extensive embroidery business is carried on. It is further distinguished as the birthplace of cloisonne enamelling in Japan.

Saved Settlers From Starvation

Monument to Memory of Birds Erected In Utah

In Salt Lake City, Utah, is one of the two monuments in the world—the other is in Italy—erected to the memory of birds. This monument commemorates the fact that about the year 1850 the original settlers in Utah were saved from starvation by seagulls.

A year after their arrival the white settlers were alarmed to observe that their crops were being devoured by myriads of crickets and grasshoppers, which over-ran the country until it was as if it had been scorched by fire.

Prayer was resorted to, and one day, as if in answer to their appeals, there appeared a great flock of seagulls, which proceeded to devour the pests, and it was not until the "enemy" had been completely annihilated that the gulls took to their wings and disappeared.

The monument commemorating the event was unveiled in 1913.

Supplies For Japan

Red Cross Sending Large Consignment Of Essential Goods

Supplies are being rushed to Japan by the Canadian Government for relief of the thousands of victims of the recent earthquakes, fires and floods in Tokio and Yokohama. Large quantities of foodstuffs have been purchased by the Department of Trade and Commerce, a considerable part of which is canned milk. Lumber and other materials are also being sent. The Canadian Red Cross Society is arranging to send large consignments of essential goods at the earliest possible moment. Throughout Canada the people are organizing to help Japan in its time of serious need.

Cause and Effect

The farmer cannot sell his wheat at a profit because his export trade has been largely destroyed. His export trade has been largely destroyed because hungry Europe is too poor to buy his wheat. Hungry Europe is too poor to buy his wheat because Europe is in a state of social, economic and political chaos, and Europe is in that state because though America helped in the winning of the war, America afterwards refused to help the grave problems of restoring peace.—The Living Church.

Predicts Huge Gains In Population Of West In The Next Few Years

"It is the intention of the Canadian National Railways to use every possible instrument in the Dominion of Canada and the British Isles, not only to bring desirable people into the country, but to take care of them after they arrive," was the earnest declaration of W. D. Robb, Vice-President in charge of colonization, development and other departments of the Canadian National Railways, in speaking on transportation at a luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition Directors in Toronto.

"The Canadian National Railways, since the advent of the present management, have been planning an active and effective organization to deal with the important need of Canada for greater population," said Mr. Robb. "The policy of the Canadian National Railways must, of necessity, be regulated by that of the Dominion Government and Canada's ability to absorb and assimilate newcomers."

"I am firmly of the belief that it is not so much the endeavor to bring in people to this country that is going to solve our problem, as making the conditions here so attractive that people will desire to come of their own accord. Probably one of the most potent factors will be the introduction of necessary capital to develop our natural resources and many industries that can be built up on them. There are many forces at work today to bring about this result, and one of the most significant is the presence at this exhibition of a number of firms representing the great federation of British industries, the most important organized association of manufacturers in the world, representing more than twenty-five billion dollars of capital.

"While they realize that the Dominion, as a result of the financial assistance, will, to the extent of its power, endeavor to develop its own manufacturing industries, and in many cases will compete with the goods of the Mother Country, they take the broad view that by so doing these Dominions will increase their international prosperity, and thus provide a wider market within the Empire for the goods of the Mother Country.

"The railways of this country were brought into existence to perform the task of turning the vast waste spaces into populated areas. When these are filled," concluded Mr. Robb, "with an industrious people yielding traffic, it will be time to apply to the railway some of the tests that reasonably apply to other business from the outset. The western country is only now coming into its own, and it is my prediction that in a few years many hundreds of thousands of settlers will be added to its population. It is also our intention to direct attention to the maritime provinces, which offer singular opportunities to the people of the British Isles."

Offer B.C. Lumber

Hon. T. D. Pattullo's offer of a cargo of British Columbia lumber on behalf of the province in co-operation with lumber manufacturers to aid the Japanese in recovering from the effects of their cataclysm, has been transmitted to the Imperial Japanese Government at Tokio.

ON WESTERN TOUR OF INSPECTION

E. W. BEATTY, PRESIDENT OF THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

Discussing Canada's general economic condition on his arrival from the east on his annual inspection trip, E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said it was generally but only slightly better than last year, though the psychology of the country was far from being normal.

"This is in part due to the doubt that the country's trade will realize in money returns the full expectations which we expected earlier in the year," Mr. Beatty said. "If the crop is turned into cash readily and at fair prices, distinct improvement should be noticed before the end of the year."

No final estimate of the crop had yet been made by the company's officers, Mr. Beatty said. There seemed to be a wide span between the estimates made by other authorities, but from the threshing returns coming in from Saskatchewan and Alberta, it could be assumed that estimates made two or three weeks ago would be exceeded perhaps by a very substantial amount.

"If the movement of the crop is expedited and uninterrupted the effect on the general business of the country will be marked, not only in direct results because of the crop, but in the indirect results in the stimulus to the fall business of the country generally through the increased purchasing powers of Western Canada," he said.

In the party are Sir Herbert Holt, Commander J. K. L. Ross, F. W. Molson, W. N. Tilley, K.C. Vice-President A. D. MacTier accompanied the party as far as Fort William and joining it there were D. C. Coleman, Vice-President in charge of Western Lines, and General Manager Charles Murphy.

MINDING OUR OWN BUSINESS BY BOOSTING THE OTHER FELLOW'S

The local auctioneer held his regular sale on Saturday, bringing to town nearly two hundred farmers and other residents from the surrounding district who had something to sell, or wanted to buy. Most of these people came for no other definite purpose than to attend the sale.

Two grocery stores we phoned reported a very brisk business on Saturday, the hardware merchants enjoyed a satisfactory turnover, the butchers were kept busy, the barbers were on the go all the afternoon and evening, the hotel, refreshment parlors, and even the liquor store, all shared to some extent a quickening of trade. And our circulation list was increased by a few new subscribers. So nearly everybody engaged in business in Abbotsford benefited by an auctioneer holding his sale here on Saturday.

Which reminds us,—and we need reminding—that the legitimate efforts of every man or woman engaged in business in this town—(or any other town)—helps the trade of his or her neighbors. We are interdependent—very much so. A knock against anyone in trade in the home town; even a competitor, is a knock against oneself. Get behind the other fellow's line of work, say a good word for him—encourage him—it pays. And if you can't say a good word about your competitor, remember that what you say against him is largely discounted by the impartial listener, who usually has a whole lot more respect for the fellow who keeps mum when he might say considerable.

ANOTHER ILLUSION DISSIPATED

The degree of safety enjoyed by depositors under our Canadian banking system, in comparison with that of other countries, particularly the United States, may now be gauged by the disclosures made in connection with the recent failures. Referring to the Home Bank disaster, the Toronto Saturday Night makes the following sharp comments:

"The financial statement of this institution to the Dominion Government for the month of June (the last available) shows it to be in a solvent condition with a reserve fund of about $550,000. While as recent as June 26th last the general manager's statement to the shareholders was to the effect that the bank had fully maintained its position and that full provision had been made for all bad and doubtful debts. Worse yet, in view of what happened, a quarterly dividend was declared in June.

Possibly the most damning feature of the entire episode was the unloading of a large block of stock by President H. J. Daly at a time when it must have been apparent to those conversant with its business that this bank was in a bad way. Three months before the Home Bank of Canada closed its doors, President Daly completed, through the late Col. Mason, then general manager, a deal with a brokerage house for the sale of one thousand shares of Home Bank stock. The agreement for the sale of this stock was made in January last, and by its terms the stock was to be sold to net Mr. Daly $90 per share. The stock was fed out over the months as buyers could be found and the brokerage house paid to Mr. Daly the sum of $90,000 as the result of these sales. The brokerage house at the time of the deal was assured that the bank was in first class condition, and that the sale of the stock was made necessary owing to Mr. Daly's unfortunate ventures in other than the banking field."

"There is scarce need to intimate that what happened to the Home Bank was not the work of a day, a month, or a year. If the Home Bank officials knew their business, and it is presumed they did, its true condition must have been known to them long before the issuing of the June statement to the Government and long before the general manager's statement was given to the shareholders on June 26th. We have had many proofs that the monthly statements issued the government by the banks are not necessarily worth the paper they are written on."

Mention of President Daly's manoeuvre in disposing of his stock before the crash came reminds us of the report published a short time ago of an eastern small town branch manager who was summarily sent to jail for misappropriating his bank's funds. Realizing the inconsistency of the branch manager's salary with the position he must maintain in his community and the responsibility of his work, it will be interesting to observe what punishment is meted out to those who made themselves safe first without any regard for their duty.

The Canadian banking system was admitted to be cumbersome, monopolistic and expensive to the people, and is now proven unsafe. Failure of a branch institution such as the Home Bank brings financial disaster to thousands, effecting infinitely more damage than would ever be possible, by the collapse of a number of unit banks, which is the type favored by the United States.

At one end of a Canadian is the danger of huge sums of money on deposit by people all over the Dominion being available for speculation or unwise investment at the say-so of a handful of officials. On the other end are the branch managers, the average of whom represent the utility of the institution to the bank's traders and the public in general.

Can anyone concede that the training of these managers under the branch system, tends to develop in them initiative, broad vision—a progressive spirit and capable grasp of commercial fundamentals, upon which the financial life of a country revolves and the utility of the banks depend?

MEET A GENUINE OPTIMIST

We have all heard about the "Smilin' Jim" type of person who "when things go wrong," he'd say says he, "There's many folks worse off than me," this illusionary gentleman being perpetually held up to us as an optimist. But way down in our hearts we know he's a fraud, and we really don't admire him at all, even if he existed. Somehow we feel that he isn't facing life squarely. The other extreme is the person who continually grouches about everything and everybody, no matter how well things are, and we have only a little more regard for him than the former chap. But we all like the man who, when things are tolerably tolerable, says so. He is the one optimist who we feel is "shooting straight."

The writer talked to such a man today. He made us feel better. He radiated the warm sun of hope and contentment. His farm down on Sumas prairie is a pretty good place to live, so he says. His stock are doing fine. His crops weren't too bad this year—in fact they were good. His soil is rich—and the climate hereabouts just suits him and his—(there are several of them.) All in all, he feels happier on his farm today than anywhere else he has lived. Life is really worth while to him, and he feels it. And what is better, he makes you feel it. Faults he may have, but Manitoba, send us more of his kind. We surely need them.

The Pearl Rebecca Lodge is giving a Whist drive and dance on Friday, November 9th in the Masonic hall. Good music is being secured and a jolly time promised.

W. Taylor, C. E. has prepared a number of blue print maps of the townsite.

There will be a masquerade dance in the school house Klgard on Friday next.

A party of sixteen Abbotsford people surprised Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr, Matsqui on Thursday evening last, a most enjoyable evening resulting with cards, singing and other social diversion.

The party consisted of the Misses Anna, Helen and Muriel McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Bryanton, Mr. and Mrs. Mossman, Mrs. Rucker, Mrs. Upham, Mr. J. Mitchell, Mr. B. Gladwin, Mr. Peters, Mrs. T. A. Swift.

Misses Anna and Helen McCallum visited Vancouver over the week-end.

Mrs. Brooks of Vancouver was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Barnes.

Halloween will be celebrated in the Patricia Community hall, Aldergrove, on Wednesday, October 31, when a dance is to be given. Westland's orchestra will attend.

The Young Women's Social Club was organized at a meeting held in the Masonic hall on Monday last. Officers elected were: Miss Weatherbee, president, Miss Evans, vice-president, Miss May Wilson, secretary and Miss Anna Culbert, treasurer. Meetings will be held every Monday.

Abbotsford people are glad to note the girls have organized into a body of this kind for there is ample need for such a club.

E. Miller and W. Rudge leave for Portland next week where they expect to locate. A farewell party was given for them at Mrs. Rudge's on Friday a large number of friends being present.

Mr. Weatherbee is receiving medical treatment in Vancouver.

Miss Eleanor Peck returned this week from Westminster having decided not to pursue the nursing training she contemplated.

Mr. Rowley motored to Seattle on Saturday.

Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Stefan left for Portland on Tuesday morning to visit the former's son, Mr. Donald Fraser.

Miss Isabel McPhee and Miss Helen Olsen spent Friday afternoon at their homes here.

Mr. Stewart McPhee spent the week end at his home here.

The News man's second pilgrimage through the mud and rain in an attempt to find the old Whatcom road hall on Friday was successful—a day well rewarded by the really sociable time enjoyed there. It was a country dance pure and simple—with the good old quadrilles, three-step and minuet, the inevitable salmon sandwiches and boiler coffee. And the crowd were "prairie farmers"—people who went there to decently enjoy themselves and wanted everybody present to do likewise.

Orchestration was well rendered by Mrs. Starr, piano, Mrs. Walters, violin, Mrs. Brokovski, mandolin, Doris Walters, violin and last, but not least, Jim Downie with his peppening drums, cymbal, whistle and gong.

Mr. F. Griffin has taken over the local field for the News line of Christmas cards, and subscriptions. Get in touch with him.

The first meeting of the High School literary society was held in the Abbotsford school on Friday, October 5th.

Impromptu speeches on athletics and music were given by some of the members, after which Mr. Eby gave a most interesting talk on Sir Walter Scott. The next meeting will be held on October 18th.

Mr. F. V. Holtsbaum of Vancouver visited his sister, Mrs. Heller, during the week.

Capt. F. J. R. Whitehead made the rounds with the new street lighting petition Tuesday.

He is too close to me now for me to describe him as he is, but what he was then is as clear in my mind as it was in that first month when—though he vows I never looked at him—I knew instinctively and finally that Margaret-Anne was one person, and that the world contained but one man. Had I been the modest maiden of B.F.'s belief I should not doubt have tried to conquer my feelings, but the thing seemed inevitable. B.F. and the boys dropped into a world of shadows, together with my worldly ambitions and my oft-repeated avowals that I would never have anything to do with the men I knew only in the business world.

But that does not describe Murray. His transfer papers told me that he was twenty-five, the son of a Presbyterian minister in a little town near Ottawa, that like myself he had matri-culated and then gone into business, that he was five feet, ten and a half inches in height, had grey eyes and light brown hair; and that he had never been suspected of the misappropriation of funds. What his papers did not say was that he was the lightest-hearted creature living, that he could do more work, with a smile, than anyone else in the office, and that even the fussiest and most stupid customer could never irritate him. Everyone liked him, but he was not spoiled, and he had the most wholesome, optimistic attitude towards the world. I do not think that at that time he had ever given a thought to the great problems of life, he simply did the duty that came next, with an instinctive trust that all little tangles would straighten themselves out in the end.

That he was immediately popular in the office goes without saying. Just at first I was afraid that he had the trait I most distrust in men—a certain susceptibility where women are concerned—but as I grew to know him better I learned that this was only on the surface. It may seem an undignified smile, but he was exactly like a friendly puppy. Pat him and he would wag his tail! And he never lacked for pats. A sensible person would have said that I was merely jealous, but the feeling went deeper than that. I knew that if I did not marry him there was nothing for me but to become a shining light in the business world. And I wondered if I could love him so hard that he would never miss the others. It was all shockingly primitive—a judgment on me, doubtless—and I was glad that my office veneer was so thick that I was believed to be either annoyingly indifferent or disappointed because the staff of the new department had been brought from the East, over our heads.

Strangely enough, B.F. took to Murray at once, and it was through him that we first met socially—and, as Murray put it, had an opportunity to talk to each other without a ledger between us.

Mother and I often went to Maudie's for tea on Sunday, and one day early in November, Maudie met us with the astonishing news that "Uncle Frank" was out for a walk with one of the new men from the office and would bring him back for tea. My heart turned completely over at least twice, but Maudie is one of those dear stupid girls who never sees anything that is not explained to her, so nothing more was said.

That was the beginning of the end. It turned out that Mother knew someone who knew someone else who knew an aunt of Murray's, and the first thing I knew she had asked him to call. He came the next week and Mother quite lost her head over him. But he tells me that I almost froze him out. I did not know a great deal about men, and I was afraid that he would think my holding back a calculated lure to draw him on, but for a long while I did not dare even to be friendly. I have always resented the commonly-held belief that a man must be played like a fish—as if the whole wonderful thing were a game to be won by the most crafty! I have always valued most what I was most sure of, and I have never been conceited enough to think my self an exception in that respect. When other girls would talk of "keeping a man interested" by breaking appointments, pretending to prefer others, and so on, I used to wonder what they expected to do if they ever married, if they really thought their husbands would no longer care for them once they were sure of them.

And I had my reward. One of the loveliest things Murray ever told me was that from the very first he knew that if I ever came to care for him he could be as sure of me as he was of his mother, and that he had always meant to marry a girl of that sort, even if he did amuse himself with the other kind.

"There is enough of you to satisfy one," he said. "You don't have to give a little bit with one hand and take it away with the other."

Perhaps I am too hard on the women to whom "the game is the thing."

CHAPTER THREE

In April of 1914 Mother took a severe cold which rapidly developed into pneumonia.

I had never known her to be ill and, while I was naturally very much concerned, it was not until the doctor prepared me for it that the thought of her not recovering ever entered my mind. Several months before, so the doctor told me, Mother had consulted him, and he had found that her heart was not normal. And now the danger was that it might not be strong enough to stand the strain of an acute illness. She recovered from the pneumonia, however, and we brought her home from the hospital. That she was content to stay in bed until noon, and then to lie on the couch for the rest of the day, seemed quite reasonable to me, and once when she hinted at the possibility of my being left alone I would not listen to her. At another time she talked to me very frankly about Murray, and though even to Mother it was hard for me to say what I felt, I am glad now that she knew and was satisfied.

But I could not believe that she was not growing stronger as the days went by, and when one Sunday morning she did not wake I thought I should die too.

It was then I learned how many friends I had, though it was Murray who kept me sane in that awful first month. Sometimes when I want to tease him I tell him that he never really asked me to marry him. And he is forced to admit the truth of the accusation. He simply came in as a matter of course and took everything into his own hands, did all that was necessary about Mother's affairs, and when everything was settled, told me that there was nothing to be gained by waiting and that he wanted to have the right to take care of me as soon as I would give it to him. Then it came out that he and Mother had had a long talk, and that what he was doing was in accordance with her wishes.

But I could not agree. I felt that I must have time to get a grip on myself. And though my sorrow had brought us closer and closer together, and deepened my need for what he alone could give me, it did not seem fair to him to take him so sad a heart. So we arranged at last that we would be married in September and go East for a month. I knew that I should never cease to miss Mother, but I hoped by that time to have learned to cover the pain, so as not to compel others to share it with me.

And in August war broke out. Through the long days of that first week, when all Winnipeg was tense with anxiety, and when men and women put each other to the test, I could see that Murray was worried. So on Saturday night I fought my own battle, and on Sunday told him that he must feel as free to go as if he had never known me.

And then I discovered what no doubt many women have discovered before and since, though we do not speak of it even to each other. Murray was not thinking only of me, he was torn between his sense of duty and a hatred of war in all its phases. "But we've got to see it through, Margaret-Anne," he said grimly. "The one thing worse than war would be to let the Germans succeed, this world is not going to be fit to live in if they are allowed to run it according to their ideas."

And a few minutes later, "I am not afraid of being killed, though I never had so much reason to live, please don't think me a coward. It is the thought of killing that almost drives me mad. And yet when I think of Belgium, and that it is only the lives of men that stand between you and those horrors I feel that I cannot go soon enough."

I let him talk it all out, and I think I convinced him that I understood how he felt. But my next task was not an easy one. I felt sure that Murray was the sort of man who would believe it right to leave me free, and I was determined that he should not. Suppose he should come home crippled or even helpless—and I knew it was of that he was thinking—why should I not have the right to do for him what he would willingly do for me?

It was very hard to tell him that I wanted him to marry me before he went away, but I was fighting for the future. And when he begged, "Don't tempt me, Margaret-Anne!" I knew that I had won.

So we changed our plans just a trifle and were married in August instead of in September. Some of our friends approved and some disapproved, but all were interested. And only a few were brave enough to put their disapproval into words.

"I think it is the most romantic thing I ever heard of!" Maudie assured me.

And Mrs. Stevenson hoped that I would never have cause to regret my rashness. "Young people will be young people, I suppose," she sighed. "But I hope you have considered that you may perhaps be burdened with a helpless husband, or perhaps left a young widow."

But then she gave me a beautiful tablecloth, and kissed me for Mother, so I forgave her. And I hid the tablecloth away at the bottom of my trunk, for I could not look at it without thinking that I might never need to use it.

The people at the office gave us a luncheon, and presented Murray with the usual wrist watch, and me with a case of silver. The luncheon was a very gay affair, and Murray made the speech of his life, but there were tears just below the surface. I myself was so upset that I almost kissed the manager.

I did kiss poor old B.F. at the station, and he was so fearfully embarrassed that I knew he had quite recovered, especially as he promised Murray to be a father to me.

Murray and I spent two weeks together at his home, and then he went on to Valcartier and joined the 8th. I stayed with the Alywins so as to be near him as long as possible, and then, when the First Contingent had sailed, I came back to Winnipeg, and took up my work where I had dropped it.

England's Laziest Village

Vicar Thinks Credit Should Be Given to Broxholme

Which is the laziest village in England? asks the London Daily News.

If the rector, the Rev. H. J. Griffin, is to be believed, the credit must be given to Broxholme, six miles from London.

There are only twenty-three houses in the village, but the rector says he finds the task of administering to the spiritual needs of the 105 habitually tired souls who comprise his flock a discouraging and exasperating one.

It has long been a sore point with him that on Sunday only a sprinkling of his parishioners trouble to walk the stone's throw which separates the church from the village.

He complains, too, that after weeks of preparation and advertising recently not one of the 105 arrived at a garden fete in the rectory grounds in aid of parochial needs.

In fairness to the men of Broxholme, however, it should be said that they do sometimes take a constitutional—invariably on the day when the rector has decided that the leaves of the graveyard require sweeping up.

The sight of a score or so of rustics watching the rector over the churchyard wall as, in shirt sleeves, he bends to his task, has its humorous side, but the rector has yet to find it.

Branding Criminals

Turkish Police Adopting English Fifteenth Century Method

A dispatch from Constantinople states that the Turkish police are reverting to the English 15th century mode of marking habitual criminals. Whereas England used to cut off the ears of criminals, the Turkish officials are tattooing or burning old offenders so that they may be recognized. Strong measures are needed, it is said, because of a tremendous influx of the worst element from all Near Eastern countries since the end of the war. These added to the already notorious criminal class of Constantinople, make it one of the worst cities for criminal activity in the entire world.

Manitoba Dairy Products

The Manitoba Government will shortly appoint a commissioner to investigate marketing of dairy products with a view to establishing co-operative agencies at country points and endeavor to get better prices for these products both to the importer and consumer.

Matsqui Council

Matsqui Municipal Council met on Saturday last road improvements as usual, being the principal business attended to.

The Council authorized the calling of tenders for hauling clay and gravel on a section of Mathers road.

Appropriations were made of $200 for improving McClure road and $50 for McKee road.

E. J. Bond was given permission to run his tile drain along Bell road to Slough road.

The Provincial Engineer is to be requested to attend to removing of stumps at the intersection of the Mt. Lehman and Yale roads.

Reeve Merryfield suggested a Revision of Wards to allocate an additional Ward and to separate the high land divisions from the prairies.

Clerk Le Feuvre was instructed to request the C. P. R. to remove a portion of a platform which obstructs the Riverside road at Clayburn road.

A petition was received from residents of Higginson road requesting the graveling of a hill in their thoroughfare, which becomes slippery in wet weather. The Council will investigate.

The C. N. R. following notification that the Riverside road crossing was too narrow wrote the Council requesting further information and details of a recent accident at that point, when an auto overturned.

Very considerable attention is given at the Lacombe, Alberta, Dominion Experimental Station, to floriculture, and according to the annual report of the Superintendent, many kinds of annual and perennial flowers are grown successfully. Speaking of the perennials, the superintendent says that the results would justify anyone, who wishes continued bloom from early in the spring until late in the fall with a minimum amount of attention, in planting some of the more vigorous and hardy kinds. Particulars of these are given in the report as to suitability to the climate and soil to all the varieties grown at the farm.

THIS MAN TELLS YOU HOW TO KEEP FIT!

Bear River, N. S.—"My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side. I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as it should have been done. I tried several doctors, and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicines, but I found no relief until I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery, and four of the Anuric Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. I advise any sufferer to give Dr. Pierce's remedies a fair trial. Cow-Testing Progress

Five Provinces Show Considerable Increase in Number of Herds Tested

There were 502 cow-testing centres, 2,685 dairy herds under test, and 26,203 tests conducted this year, mainly under the supervision of Dominion dairy officials, up to the end of June last. Five of the provinces show a considerable increase in the number of herds tested. Saskatchewan shows the largest percentage of increase, with New Brunswick next in line and Alberta a close third. The increase in Saskatchewan is largely due to the efficient work of provincial officials. In British Columbia, with five organized co-operative associations, approximately two thousand cows are tested each month.

Creamery Butter Production

Production Last Year Excellent that of Any Previous Year

The total quantity of creamery butter made in Canada in 1922 was 147,752,774 pounds valued at $51,530,780, an increase in quantity over the previous year of 19,008,164 pounds, or 14 per cent., and in value of $3,395,543, or 7 per cent. The production of creamery butter last year excelled that of any previous year.

The total quantity of cheese made in Canada last year was 136,579,473 pounds valued at $22,067,106, compared with 162,117,494 pounds valued at $28,710,030 in the previous year.

Britain Orders Latest Tanks

Self-Contained Fighting Unit Also Draws Artillery Into Action

British gun manufacturers have produced a new war weapon, says The Daily News. It takes the form of a tractor tank and is capable of drawing artillery into action in addition to being a self-contained fighting unit.

The tank is mounted with guns, has a turret and a special compartment in which it carries field artillery. Its range is twice that of the earlier tanks used in the war.

The British Government has planned an initial order for 23 of the new machines to cost $40,000 each.

Reasons For Queer Habits

Japanese Have Logical Explanation For Doing Things Backwards

"When I first went to Japan," a long-time American resident of that country is reported in the "Type Metal Magazine" as saying, "they seemed to do everything the wrong way. They sawed wood by drawing the saw toward them. They backed their horses into the stalls. When our clocks are striking one, theirs would strike 11. Their blacksmiths worked sitting down and when they wanted to rest they stood up. But gradually I learned that there was a logical reason for each of these seemingly queer habits."

"Pulling the saw prevented buckling. 'When are you in a hurry—when you put your horse in the stall or when you take him out?' was the answer of the man who was questioned about the horse. As to the clock, it seems that the Japanese prefer to know how many hours are left in the day rather than how many have passed. And the blacksmith who sits down works with his feet as well as his hands—literally, he has four hands, and he rests all these when he gets up."

DIARRHOEA and VOMITING Doubled Up With Pains

If you are suddenly attacked with diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps or pains in the stomach or any looseness of the bowels do not waste valuable time but at once procure a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly it will relieve you.

Mrs. Ernest Morris, 3 Webb St., London, Ont., writes:—"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for what it has done for me."

Some time ago I took an awful violent headache, then started to vomit all day; towards evening intense pains came in my bowels and I was just doubled up the pains were so bad; the perspiration stood out like beads on my forehead; then the diarrhoea started and I really thought I was going to die.

My husband went to the drug store and got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; he gave me four doses, at intervals, and by noon next day the diarrhoea had stopped and the pain was all gone too.

Now I will never be without 'Dr. Fowler's' in the house."

Price 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Demand For Paper On Ocean Liners

Management Has Found It Necessary To Instal Faster Presses

Because, according to the management, "the demand has been larger than could have been predicted," new and faster printing presses will shortly be installed on the Cunard liners to print the Daily Mail Atlantic Edition. This paper is set in type, edited and published each day that the liners are at sea. The ships publishing the Daily Mail Atlantic Edition are the Berengaria, Aquitania, Mauretania, Carmania, Franconia, Tyrhenia, Laconia, Caronia, Samaria and Seythia.

Installation of linotype machines on the first three ships listed above is the latest forward step in this new branch of journalism. Twice a day by arrangement with the Radio Communication Company, important news events are wirelessly to the ships on the Atlantic. The subscription price is one shilling and threepence for the voyage. Single copies are sold at threepence.

Canada Foremost Wheat Grower

A cablegram received at Ottawa from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome summarizing the world's wheat conditions places Canada in the foremost position as a source of supply for the world's wheat markets. The prospective shipments from principal wheat exporting countries are placed as follows: Canada, 290 million bushels; United States, 180 millions; Argentina, 120 millions; Australia, 40 millions; India, 30 millions; Russia, 20 millions; Balkans, 10 millions.

A Power of its Own.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has a subtle power of its own. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

Beauties of Canada

New Posters Depicting Scenes of Great Beauty Issued by C. N. Railways

Combining the best work of artists and printers and setting forth the beauties of Canada in a manner which appeals instantly to the eye, a new series of posters is being issued by the Canadian National Railways and are now being placed on display in the offices of the system and elsewhere in the Dominion and in other countries. The grandeur of the Rockies, typified by Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, is depicted in an artistic design on one of the posters, while another shows a magnificent view of Mount Edith Cavell and Lac Beauvert, all of which are on the lines of the National system.

The glint of sun upon placid waters, with motor boats and other craft in the foreground and Minaki Inn in the background, carries to intending tourists a message of the beauties of that section of Ontario which lies just 114 miles east of Winnipeg.

The Great Lakes and Port Arthur are depicted in a poster showing the lake and rail route offered to tourists travelling between Eastern and Western Canada, a deck scene on the S.S. Noronic being the medium through which the poster tells its story of a pleasant journey which may be enjoyed as one sails down their inland seas.

In his poster design of the Lower St. Lawrence, the artist has triumphed and the printer has added the touch of his own art to the result. An aged inhabitant with his ox-cart full of fragrant new hay has ascended a steep hill at the foot of which nestles a quaint old village which in Canada could be found only in Lower Quebec.

Protecting Elk Herds

The elk herds on Vancouver Island, north of Cowichan Lake, are to have a reservation of forty square miles, and the British Columbia Game Board is now engaged in making necessary improvements so that real protection may be afforded this rare species of big game. There are said to be about 300 head of elk in the immediate vicinity of North Cowichan Lake.

A TREATISE on the Horse-FREE!

This book is one of the best ever written for the horseman and the farmer. In plain, everyday, understandable English it deals with every ailment that horseflesh is heir to, and tells how to treat them. It has chapters on shoes and shoeing, breeding and feeding. The book is worth many dollars to the handler of horses, but all you have to do is to ask your druggist for it. It is absolutely free. Here is one opinion: "Please send me by mail your GREAT book showing positions and actions of sick horses. Have been using your Kenall's Spavin Treatment for years and think it is a great treatment." PEARL CORNUM. If your druggist has not a copy of this book left write us direct: Dr. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburg Falls, Vt., U.S.A.

Deserted Woods

Oh! not again! These solitary places
Have heard—they shall not hear light wandering feet again,
Nor shall the shadow of leaves play
soft on upturned faces
Where, through the sun-lit fern, fall shining drops of rain.

It's done. The woods are lonely now.
None passes.

Sometimes you'd think the heedless
wind that stirs the leaves

Was Joy on tip-toe straying through the long, wet grasses

With smiling eyes as once on burning
July eves.

But that's not Joy—this is some latter comer

Whose voice we never knew—who know her voice so well!

A stranger Joy who greets us not. Our Summer

Sleeps here, and the woods sleep.
Summer, sleep sound. Farewell!

THE SPECTATOR Narrowness of Revelling

One morning about 6 o'clock on one of my early rambles in Paris I passed Maxim's, the restaurant where the real spenders are supposed to "go the limit." By means of bribery I stepped inside. There was a company of men and women, gaily dressed, who were just finishing dancing out the night. A red-coated orchestra was still see-sawing madly. Innumerable champagne bottles were upon the wine-stained tables. The sunlight was streaming in. The revellers were slipping out. It certainly was as ghastly a scene as one could find.

What struck me was the extreme narrowness of the gamut of pleasures among this kind of people. For there were only two motifs, sexual excitement of greater or less refinement, and alcoholic excitement.

Aside from the question whether these two modes of enjoyment are right or wrong, the appalling thing is the narrowness of the life that knows nothing else. When one reflects upon the wide range of interests which a human being is capable, and the infinitely varied forms of joy which have sound values in contentment, one must regard the Maxim sort of person as about on the level of a hog, which also enjoys but one or two forms of animal excitement, and as beneath a dog, which at least adds thereto what hogs, human and porcine, do not understand—loyalty.

Where did we get the idea that wastrels and rioters get more out of living than the people who are trying to be decent? Why is it that they are supposed to have more liberty? Instead of having liberty they are the most confined, bound and enslaved portion of humanity. Instead of controlling their desires, they are controlled by them. Instead of driving the blooded horses of the instincts, the horses are running away with them and there is only a question of a short time to smash up.

If we would cease exhorting sinners to mend their ways because they are wicked and put more emphasis on the fact that they are silly we might make better progress with our preaching.

Instead of exhorting sinners "to come in" and join something, we would better exhort them to "come out" of the idiotic, tyrannous and cruel system to which they belong, to come out into liberty of intelligent and ordered living.

"THE LEOPARDESS"

A ship at sea on a stormy night with several of her passengers far from sober, simply invites a fight aboard True to tradition, "The Sea Hawk," a yacht sailing the South Seas, is the scene for a stirring fight between Mon-tagu Love and Edward Langford, leading male players in support of Alice Brady in "The Leopardess," which is to be shown at the Abbotsford theatre on Wednesday, October 17th.

The fight ends in the skipper of the craft being heaved overboard into a raging sea, while the undermanned boat ploughs through the storm under the guidance of her intoxicated owner and crew. Miss Brady, who has the role of a South Sea island girl in this story by Katharine Newlin Burt, is a horrified spectator of this fight which robs her of a champion and leaves her at the mercy of a brutal captor. The action from this point in the story is rapid and thrilling.
